TRENDY & SOPHISTICATED

There's something about that metropolis vibe, a mix of contemporary and industrial elements coming together for utility and design. This is a place where old meets new, creating that city-living charm. Natural brown tones create a sense of calm in the uptown rush. As the sun rises above the city, the skyline begins turning a champagne pink and the faded greys of the high-rises towering above you start to glow.

COASTAL

COLLECTION

Take a moment to feel the sand between your toes as you sip your morning coffee; the mist is clearing off the water and the sun is rising off the horizon. Time slows as you enjoy the moments brought by the calming undertones of the beachfront. Rustic shades of brown and grey mimic a weathered pier and rich blues bring the ocean inside. Embrace tranquility in the colours of the coast.

Decor Cabinets Blog

Everything you need to know about cabinet lighting.

Layered lighting is important for creating a luxurious feeling in your kitchen. Under cabinet lighting not only contributes to creating this ambiance, it can highlight decor items or brighten a workspace. There are two main types of under cabinet lighting: puck and strip lights. But how do you know which to choose for your cabinetry? Decor Cabinets will give you everything you need to know.

Which is better, puck or strip under cabinet lighting?

Overall, if you could only choose one, we recommend strip lighting as your choice for under cabinet lighting. Strip lights have a more constant stream of light and wider spread than puck lights, which have a focused beam. Puck and strip lights are often combined in a kitchen design, since they are better suited for different purposes.

As a rule:

- Puck cabinet lighting is best for highlighting areas of focus. Eg. For decor items on a floating shelf or china in a glass cabinet.
- Strip cabinet lighting is best for highlighting an entire area, or under cabinet task lighting. Eg. Illuminating your countertops or highlighting along the toe kick.

Tailoring your space

for your lifestyle ...

Kitchen design is no longer just about the door style, colour or futuristic gadgets - it's also about tailoring your space to fit your needs.

Full Extension Drawers

Pairing organization with full extension drawers gives you a quick overview of your contents.

Drawers Instead of Doors

When it comes to base cabinets, consider drawers over doors. They provide easy access to interiors along with being ergonomic.

Organized Interiors

Convenient and practical storage to keep everything in its place.

Dynamic Space

Fluid workflow, ample storage, and quality of motion are important considerations for a functional kitchen. CorElements offers designated solutions for all 5 kitchen tasking zones.

Preparation

All the items needed for preparing food are kept in this zone. Drawers ensure that they are within easy reach.

Cooking

There should be enough space for pots, pans, lids, and cooking utensils close to the cooktop.

Consumables

Food is kept in the consumables zone. When planning this zone it's important to ensure that everything's within easy reach.

Non-Consumables

The non-consumables zone is designed for flatware, dishes, glasses and plastic containers. That's why it's a good idea to have the dishwasher close by.

Cleaning

This zone houses the dishwasher and sink. Cleaning utensils and cleaning agents should be kept here so that everything is close at hand.

Times change

and so do kitchen standards...

Industry standard counter heights don't work for everybody, because there's no such thing as industry standard humans!

Working Surface Height

Studies show that correct working surface height improves your posture, decreases neck and back pain and can even increase your energy. Industry standard height may work for you, or you can choose from custom and task specific heights.

Ask your designer about your ideal working surface height

Accessories That Elevate

For optimal organization everything in your kitchen should have a designated place. Functional inserts and accessories help to define open space and make finding what you need that much easier.
